– Triangle:

Characteristics: Your hips and waist are wider than your shoulders, forming a triangular shape. This shape often results from carrying extra weight around the midsection, making the lower body appear more prominent compared to the upper body.

– Inverted triangle:

– Oval:

Characteristics: Your waist is wider than your shoulders and hips, giving you an oval or round shape. This body shape often has a fuller midsection and less definition between the chest and waist.

– Trapezoid:

Characteristics: You have broad shoulders and chest with a narrower waist, creating a well-proportioned, athletic look. This shape is considered ideal for most clothing styles due to its natural balance and defined upper body tapering to a slimmer waist.
